What It Is

Set up by mass communications professional Jane Bryant in October 2003 to help her sick son, One Click is a British-based international advocacy pressure group and worldwide raw news hub. The overarching remit of One Click is to cover individuals and organisations in conflict with the State and powerful corporations. One Click not only breaks the news, it also makes it. Material published by One Click frequently appears in the terrestrial media a few short days later. We work out in the field and on the internet.

Harnessing the power of the internet to deliver information to our global audience, The One Click Group website gets between 12,000 to 33,000 hits per day, every day of the week. The material published by the group is read by the residents of over 100 countries around the world. We are both a reactive and interactive raw news hub. Information with us is a multi-way process. We are a formidable advocacy resource used by millions.

Issues that One Click covers include, but are not confined to:

- Biodefence and Biosecurity
- Pharmaceutical industry activities
- Government agencies such as the CDC, NICE UK etc.
- Government corruption
- Social Services and the Family Courts
- Data Protection
- Munchausen Syndrome by Proxy/Fabricated and Induced Illness (FII) et al
- Charities' malfeasance exposure
- Iatrogenic death
- Vaccine damage
- Medical research
- Health trials, including miscarriages of justice
- Prions and Prion diseases
- Controversial illness
- War

One Click is constantly refining its issues portfolio by public demand.

How It Works

One Click sits on committees, makes presentations to Members of Parliament and the Lords, distributes, promotes the work of other meritorious advocacy groups and liaises with the media.

We write and publish our own original material and publish that of others on the issues described. The material published by the group is frequently controversial It is evidenced and factual/

One Click has many contributors who frequently jostle to get their information published by us on a daily basis.

We despatch the One Click Newsletter by email to a vast number of strictly targeted global opinion formers, including many members of government, most days of the week.

What It Costs

The information provided by One Click to millions is completely free. All One Click contributors give of their time for nothing to help others.

As the pressure group and its influence has so dramatically grown, so have the running costs of carrying this enormous amount of archive material on the website to benefit others.

We are a resource for good. Our objective is to try to help others, particularly patients in conflict.
